

ABSTRACT

An apparatus has a body with first and second faces, an inboard surface bounding a central aperture, an outboard perimeter, and an array of bolt holes between the first and second faces. A channel is inboard of the bolt holes and first and second ports communicate with the channel. The apparatus may be used as a cooling flange in a detonative cleaning apparatus.